

Nobuya Tsuji

Nobuya Tsuji grew up in Kyoto, Japan. He obtained his B.Sc. and M.Sc. under the supervision of Prof. Yoshiji Takemoto at Kyoto University. Then he moved to Germany to begin his PhD studies at Max-Planck-Institut für Kohlenforschung under the supervision of Prof. Benjamin List. After one year of postdoctoral study at University of California, Berkeley, he moved to Hokkaido University to be a specially appointed assistant professor/Co-PI in the List group there. Now he was promoted to a specially appointed associate professor in the same group.