

Frank Schager

Studied Chemistry at the Heinrich-Heine-University of Düsseldorf (D) and at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill (US). He received his Diploma and Ph.D. at the Max Planck-Institute for coal research in Mülheim/Ruhr (D). In 1998 he worked as research chemist for Hoffmann-La Roche Ltd, before entering the Patent Department of Roche. He handled patent matters in the field of pharmaceuticals, process chemistry and biotechnology-litigations. He qualified as European Patent Attorney in 2002. Since 2003 he is lecturer on European and International Patent Law and practice for trainee Patent Attorneys at CEIPI within Robert Schumann University, Strasbourg (FR), and in Basel (CH).

In July 2004 he joined Actelion Pharmaceuticals Ltd as Chief Patent Counsel, where he is responsible for the global patent and trademark activities. He is also representing Actelion in Interpharma, Interpat and AIPPI Switzerland.